The Great American Food and Arts Fair 2019

Arts and crafts demonstrations and presentations

Chef demonstrations and contests

We plan to offer instructional and educational classes both days of the event. If you would like to help us with a class, please let us know by filling out the form below. The classes will be 30 to 45 minutes in length. This will allow for a demonstration or presentation and a question and answer time. If you are the only person running your booth and are selected to teach a class, we will do our best to have someone fill in while you do your presentation. Demonstrations can also be offered at your booth. The demonstrations will be advertised prior to the event.

 New this year: Palette to Palate – Chefs will compete by using an art piece/handmade creation from a vendor as inspiration to recreate the piece with food. We will have celebrity judges to decide a winner! If you wish to offer a piece from your booth as inspiration for the contest, mark yes by the question below. We will post a sign on your booth to let the chefs know which booths are participating. The chefs will only have 30 minutes to choose and to recreate the art with food. A sign with your booth number will be displayed at the competition to let customers know where to find the piece if they wish to purchase. We are not asking for the pieces to be donated, only used during the competition.

There will not be an additional cost associated with the classes for the attendees.
